

Press ReleaseBertrandt appointed as “Preferred Supplier by Airbus for Engineering Services”

Ehningen, 9. December 2021 – After a selection process lasting several months, Bertrandt has been awarded the status of EMES³ Preferred Supplier by Airbus. This status enables Bertrandt to provide Engineering Services in Engineering, Manufacturing Engineering and Customer Services for Airbus group-wide.

This appointment by Airbus, a leading aircraft manufacturer gives Bertrandt the opportunity to support Airbus by contributing its entire range of services in the field of aerospace development. It will open up additional growth prospects for Bertrandt outside the automotive market.

“We are delighted that we were able to convince Airbus of our capabilities during this year’s selection process and we would like to express our thanks for the trust they have placed in us. This appointment will further deepen and strengthen our long-standing customer relationship. The transnational expansion of our activities in the aerospace industry is an important component in Bertrandt’s corporate strategy,” said Michael Lücke, Member of the Board of Bertrandt AG.

With more than 20 years of experience in the aerospace industry, Bertrandt has extensive technological expertise that meets the requirements of Airbus. “We provide a broad spectrum of services, including component and system development, electronics and software development, manufacturing expertise and a wide range of in-service solutions,” said Stefan Schürings, Managing Director of Bertrandt Hamburg. “We are very pleased to support Airbus beyond the previous development areas and also internationally on the basis of our comprehensive Group expertise.”
